Consolidation Study Committee Report Begins Estimate of Impact of Merger on Town

Consolidation? The word is a puzzle to people new to Princeton. Are there really two Princetons—Borough and Township? Two police departments, two mayors, a line down the middle of somebody's backyard and, most vital of all, two tax rates?

Union of Borough and Township into a single "Princeton" has been, historically, the town's most emotional issue. Now it is back in the news again.

A Joint Consolidation Study Committee, named by both mayors ten months ago, is ready to share its findings with the public, and to get back in return, the thoughts of Princeton residents about the future of their community.

The public is invited to Borough Hall at 8 p.m. Wednesday, October 2, for the first exchange of views on the subject.

The committee hasn't made any decision on consolidation one way or the other. Between now and October 2, a report on consolidation, prepared by the committee itself, will appear in TOWN TOPICS each week. The first appears on page 2 of this issue.

The last consolidation study was completed nine years ago, in 1965. It is always called the Dilley Report, after Robert V. Dilley, formerly of Princeton, who was its chairman.

The Dilley committee found that consolidation wasn't feasible at that time, either economically or politically, although its members did recommend a joint planning board (implemented in 1969) and a joint health board (both boards passed this year resolutions favoring union). Merger of the two school systems was approved by the voters in 1966.

Two members of the Dilley committee, Charles Cornforth and Stanley C. Smoyer, are members of the present consolidation study committee, and Mr. Smoyer was an active proponent of consolidation the only time it has come before the voters, in an emotional, highly-charged referendum back in 1953.

Voters defeated consolidation after a heated campaign whose rumors and issues now seem almost bizarre. In the Borough, volunteer firemen feared their companies would be disbanded in favor of paid firemen. In the Township, voters feared a mandatory extension of sewers and sidewalks.

Wardheeler politicians imported from the big cities would take over, and volunteer government would be wiped out. Government would become huge, expensive and corrupt.

Said the Borough: un-needed schools would be built (the Township was bursting out of its Valley Road school and still using Stony Brook for classrooms). Said the Township: the Borough wants us to help pay for enlarging the high school. And so it went.

Only "those newcomers" wanted consolidation, it was whispered. And yet, the staunchest backers were Charles R. Erdman, six-time mayor of the Borough, who had written his 1924 master's thesis on the desirability of consolidation; Eleanor Marquand Delaney, whose family donated Marquand Park; and Minot C. Morgan Jr., also a former mayor. They were all old-timers

Council Introduces Revised Ordinance for Spring Street Area; Emergency Funds to Keep Shuttle Buses Rolling into October

The experimental bus-shuttle system was saved by the bag of a gavel Tuesday night as Borough Council followed Township Committee in appropriating emergency money to keep the buses rolling through October.

Council also introduced the ordinance allowing Telebus to raise its 50c fare to a $1 maximum. Public hearing will be October 8.

The bus system salvaged, at least temporarily, Council moved on to introduce a revised zoning ordinance for the Spring-Tulane-Vandeventer area. The original ordinance, introduced and passed late last winter, caused an uproar of misunderstanding between residents and Council members, and was repealed.

This new ordinance "preserves the residences of the area more realistically," commented Council member Barbara Sigmund, who pointed out that maintaining the residential character of the neighborhood was the reason for the zoning changes in the first place.

Under the new measure, the west side of Vandeventer from Spring to the Garden Theatre, now R-O-1, will become R-4, as in the earlier version. Two properties on North Tulane: one behind the Hall furniture store and the Skillman house across Tulane from it, and all other properties now in R-4, will become RB—Residence-Business. This means any kind of business, but it must be limited to 40 per cent of the area, retaining 60 per cent for residential use.

The remainder of the area becomes CB—Central Business. This includes Hall's furniture store, Skillman's upholstery establishment, the residence next to Hall's on Spring, Nelson's Glass, Lincoln Court, the bowling alley on Nassau, and so on.

Public hearing on the ordinance will be October 8.

Mrs. Sigmund reported a 15-signature petition from North Tulane residents, citing increased traffic on the street, and asking re-zoning to RB.

Health Boards to Merge. An ordinance of considerable historic significance opening the way for merging Borough and Township boards of health, was introduced, 5-1, with public hearing scheduled for October 8.

Council member Martin P. Lombardo, voting "no", said he wasn't convinced merger would mean more efficiency or greater attention to unmet health problems. He said the health board, presenting its case to Council, hasn't described any specific plans, and was unable to say what it could have done better if the boards had been merged.

Staff shortages in both Borough and Township restrict each board, replied Council member Robert Powell. Restaurant inspections in the Borough are made only every two or three months, which is not enough.

he continued, and the housing inspector, which the Borough could only afford half-time, has quit, so that housing inspections are now done "hit or miss." Neither board can afford a full-time inspector, Mr. Powell said.

"We HAVE spelled out our needs," Louise Bessire of the board of health told Council, "we aren't adequately covering the problems and we're behind schedules because we haven't the staff. We didn't feel we should throw specific demands for new programs at whatever new consolidated board is appointed."

A 25-page document citing these needs and giving reasons for merger, budget proposal and so on, is now available for examination in Borough Hall, Mrs. Bessire told the audience.

Nelson van den Blink, chairman of the Borough health board, cited cumbersome, time-consuming negotiations involving the hospital and both boards of health before last year's screening program for the elderly finally took place.

Mr. Lombardo remained unconvinced, and suggested the Borough's own board be

Are Any of Your Friends Triskaidekaphobics?

This Friday (the 13th) May Bring the Answer

If you are planning to close a business deal this Friday, sail on a cruise ship leaving port this Friday, get married this Friday, count on your neighbor to hold the ladder while you climb up to the roof—if you are planning any activity in which you have to count on another person, watch out. That other person may be a triskaidekaphobic.

Triskaidekaphobics cost the world's economy an estimated $2 billion a year just in work stoppages. They desert their employers and best friends for hours and hours. Because of fidgety triskaidekaphobics, ships have actually delayed their sailing by a full day.

Triskaidekaphobics are, of course, those millions of persons who fear that some grave event will beset them whenever a Friday falls on the 13th day of the month. This week it's Friday the 13th again, so beware of triskaidekaphobics.

Whenever or why people began their fear for Fridays the 13th is unknown. Some sources suggest that Judas was the 13th guest at the Last Supper and that the supper was held on a Friday. Others believe that Christ was crucified on a Friday the 13th.

Julius Caesar was assassinated, Joan of Arc was burned at the stake, and Charles I was executed on some of the more prominent unlucky Fridays in history. The world's worst avalanche, which killed 5,000 persons in Peru, fell on a Friday the 13th in 1941.

$7 Insurance. Average citizens can also testify to the dangers looming around the calendar four times or so each year. One Canadian credit manager last year insured himself for $62,000 with Lloyd's of London to guard against any untoward event that might occur on a Friday the 13th.

The $7 premium was well worth it in his mind. On a Friday the 13th in 1971 the plane in which he was flying lost a wheel on landing. On another unlucky Friday in then, and they are all living here now.

Of the opponents who wrote for the TOWN TOPICS of 1953, only one, Jac Weller, is still a Princeton resident.

The night before the vote, after weeks of door-to-door and telephone campaigning on both sides, one of the fire companies (in what was probably a highly illegal move) took its engines to the streets in a successful, last-minute effort, and the referendum was defeated.

(Editor's Note: Princeton's 12-member consolidation study committee will present its findings, although not any definitive conclusions, in a series of three articles which will appear in TOWN TOPICS. This is the first of the committee's three presentations; the other two will appear in the issues of September 19 and 26.)

Consolidation—what does it mean? Geographically, it means removal of the boundary line common to the two municipalities, thus converting the 1.76 square miles of Princeton Borough and the 16.25 square miles of Princeton Township into one municipality of 18 square miles.

It means that the 12,311 residents of the Borough and the 13,651 residents of the Township would become residents of a municipality of 26,000.

It means that one governing body, elected by 13,762 registered voters, would provide the government under which the citizens of the new municipality would live.

And it means a single tax rate would cover county, schools, and local purposes for 6,000 properties.

All of these effects of consolidation are easy to determine. The more difficult determinations relate to the effect of consolidation on municipal operations.

The individual citizen may ask:

- Will the services provided be better or worse than they are now?
- Will my voice be heard more clearly or less clearly by the new governing body?

- Will I be expected to conform to ordinances which are more desirable or less desirable, as I see them?
- Will my taxes be more because of consolidation or will they be less?
- Or, will some of these factors not be affected at all?

The Joint Consolidation Committee of Princeton, an Advisory Committee to the governing bodies of the Borough and Township, has been studying these questions over the last ten months to help decide whether to recommend that a referendum on consolidation be held.

So far, the Committee has not decided whether to recommend for or against consolidation. To help them arrive at this decision, the Committee members want to encourage public understanding, discussion, and comment on the issues involved.

The Committee has taken the first step in this process by assembling this series of articles, based on Committee studies to date. The second step will be a public meeting in Borough Hall at 8 p.m., Wednesday, October 2, at which individual citizens can discuss their views and questions concerning consolidation.

After this meeting, the Committee will have more work to do—studying any new issues raised in the meeting and analyzing the impact on consolidation that would be caused by proposed new state laws on school finance and on municipal consolidation.

When the state legislature's action on these proposed laws is known, the Committee will be in better position to make a decision on whether to recommend consolidation—and have the question placed before the voters in a referendum—or whether to recommend against consolidation.

The ten-member Committee, consisting of five Borough residents and five Township residents, was created by parallel resolutions of the Borough and Township. In carrying out its assignment, the Committee has been studying the operations of both municipal governments including all joint operations, the financial and tax implications of consolidation, and the overall advantages and disadvantages of consolidation to the Princeton community.

If the Committee decides to recommend consolidation, it is also expected to determine whether the Borough form, the Township form, or a different form of municipal government might be more efficient and responsive to the needs of the people.

At present the Princeton community is comprised of two separate and independent municipal corporations: the Borough of Princeton, which contains the central business district and the surrounding residential area, and the Township of Princeton, which contains the outlying residential area completely surrounding the Borough. The two municipalities are governed by forms of government that date back to their inception as separate municipalities.

The Borough is governed by a mayor and six council members, who together comprise the Council. The Borough mayor, as the chief executive official, presides over the Council, may vote to break a tie, has veto power over ordinances, and makes most appointments, subject to the advice and consent of the Council.

The Township, on the other hand, is governed by a five member Committee, one of whom is selected by the Committee to be the mayor. The Township mayor presides over the Committee, exercises the ceremonial functions and some appointing power. Most of the executive functions and all of the legislative power of the municipality, however, is exercised by the Township Committee as a whole.

Both municipalities have created by ordinance the position of municipal administrator and have delegated substantial management functions to this office.

Study on Cheapest Way to Solve Sewer Problem Will Entail Survey Which Will Cost $400,000

Which is cheaper—fix up Princeton's sewer lines so they won't dump so much water into the treatment plant, or enlarge the proposed new plant so it can take the excess water?

It will cost over $400,000 to find out, but 90 per cent of that is Federal money. Fair enough, since the Federal Environmental Protection Agency says it has to be done. The remaining 10 per cent will be divided among the three members of the Joint Sewer Operating Committee: Princeton Borough, Princeton Township, Princeton University.

Brokaw Engineering Associates, Inc. of State Road, whose principal, Arthur Brokaw, used to be Princeton Borough engineer, has been given the contract to make the physical survey, following Sewer Operating Committee interviews with five firms.

Details of the contract haven't been made final yet, but the contract is expected to be signed shortly. Work will take well over a year, according to Donald T. Harney, present Borough engineer and also sanitary engineer for the SOC.

Money to pay for this probing of Princeton's sewer lines comes from a Federal grant awarded to the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. Princeton Borough and Township are two of the six communities constituting the Authority.

Incidentally, since Federal money never comes until a project has been completed, Borough and Township must find some way of paying Mr. Brokaw in the meantime, perhaps by financing through short-term notes. Borough Administrator Robert F. Mooney and municipal attorney Gordon Griffin are considering various means.

Moratorium Status. How does this sewer survey affect Princeton's building moratorium, imposed by the state in late February, 1973, because of Princeton's sewer problems?

"We don't know," Mr. Harney shakes his head. "If a new sewer plant were built, it definitely would lift the moratorium. And once recommendations are made as a result of the Brokaw survey, and accepted by the EPA—let's say we apply for money to repair 40 per cent of the system or something like that, we might get some moratorium relief. It's hard to tell what the state might do."

Is that new sewer plant any closer to construction?

The Authority has filed an informal submission for Federal money to construct a wholly new treatment plant, totally replacing the present one on River Road.

Steps to Be Retraced. The submission is "informal" because the original financial agreement among the six members of the Authority, painstakingly negotiated, has to be done all over again. With only three members of the Authority scheduled to use that plant—the two Princetons and West Windsor, with outsider South Brunswick as a possible customer—the whole financial picture is different. (The other three Authority towns: Hopewell Borough and Township and Pennington Borough, will probably go it alone.)

Even though this "segmented approach" doesn't involve all the towns in the Authority, Federal rules say that all members still must sign the new service contract. Princeton Borough representative Thomas Cawley reported gloomily this summer that the Authority was now working on the SEVENTH draft of the agreement.

Mr. Harney estimates that a new sewer plant could be built in two and one-half years after bids are accepted. But first, that seventh draft must become a final draft, and then Federal authorities must approve the application for money.

Not only that: Princeton already has an "I. & I."—infiltration and inflow—analysis but Federal engineers said some time back that they wanted more data. The SOC supplied it, but Federal people want still more. Joseph Minkin, assistant sanitary engineer for the SOC, is now working on this second request.

"This whole area is new to Federal people," Mr. Harney explains. "Every time they get an application from someone, it makes them aware of new information they need."

2,000 Manholes. The Princeton I & I analysis does mean Mr. Brokaw's engineers won't have to start from scratch, Mr. Harney says. The Brokaw people will begin by going over all existing reports on Princeton's sewer system, including the I & I analysis. Then, they begin their own complicated processes.

They will inspect every manhole in the Princeton system, and there are over 2,000. "lamping" each pipeline connected to the manholes, noting the size and type of sewer pipe, the structural conditions, the kind and amounts of deposits in the lines, root growth into the pipes and the flow depth at each of the 2,000.

At key manholes, they will take flow measurements in wet and dry weather. Then partial evaluation will be made—what have we found up

Biographical Notes on Members of Consolidation Committee

The Joint Consolidation Study Committee was appointed by both mayors; however, several people volunteered to serve on the committee as soon as they learned it was to be formed. Here are brief biographies of each:

Charles Cornforth, chairman, 71 Westcott Road, is a lawyer with Borough representative, has various local governments lived in Princeton 22 years. He and volunteered his services is manager of employee

Other Borough members: Robert Hendry, 15 Chestnut Street, has been a Princeton resident for 20 years, and like Mr. Cornforth, served two terms on Borough Council. He has just been named general services administrator for United Hospitals of Newark, and is also treasurer of that organization.

Barbara Hill, 118 Leigh Avenue is a life-long Princeton resident, and was active for many years for the League of Women Voters. She is a dress designer and artist.

Allen Porter, 47 Hawthorne, is a lawyer associated with William Miller, the planning board attorney. He has practiced law here for seven years and offered his services to the committee out of interest in government organization.

Wood Tate, 73 Stockton, is vice-president of Paktank USA, Inc., a branch of a Dutch firm that builds and operates petroleum terminals. He has worked on a variety of public problems, and was a member of the group that worked on the development of Roosevelt (Welfare) Island. He has lived in Princeton for six years.

Walter Farr Jr., 7 Bayard Lane, is an alternate on the committee. A Princeton for five years, he volunteered to share with the committee his experience in state and local government law. He is a professor of law at New York University.

Township members, besides Mr. Etz, are:

Helen Fairbanks, 70 Valley Road, is on the staff of the Industrial Relations Library at Princeton University. A resident of Princeton for 25 years, she has been an active member of the League of Women Voters.

John Galiardo, 56 Crooked Tree Lane, is a lawyer with Squibb, and has lived here two years. Because of his experience on the charter commission for Scotch Plains, N.J., he volunteered his services to the consolidation committee.

Robert A. Sellery Jr., 31 Pardoe Road, a management consultant with Booz, Allen and Hamilton, is another committee volunteer. He has lived in Princeton for eight years.

Stanley Smoyer, 86 Olden Lane, served on the last consolidation study group, the "Dilley Commission" of the 1960s, and he has also been a member of Township Committee. A resident of Princeton for 29 years, he is assistant general counsel for Johnson and Johnson.

Lynn Anderson, 241 Mt. Lucas Road, is an alternate on the committee. He has recently completed work for the master's degree at the Woodrow Wilson School and is a management consultant at Chase Manhattan Bank. He spent four years in Princeton as a University undergraduate, and returned two years ago to make his home here. He is a member of the Township Zoning Board.

Consolidation Report

Over the years, the two municipalities have provided a number of services on a joint basis. There is at present a joint sewer operating committee, which includes Princeton University, a joint recreation board; a joint civil rights commission; a joint civil defense and disaster control committee, and a regional planning board.

In addition, the public library serves both municipalities. Since 1967, the school system has been a regional district comprising both the Borough and the Township.

The principal functions of local government that are administered separately through the respective governing bodies are police, engineering and public works, taxation and finance, health, welfare and zoning. Each municipality has its own municipal court.

The question of consolidation is not a new one. In 1953 a proposal for consolidation was defeated by the voters at a general election. A major study in 1962-1965, the Report of the Joint Committee on Municipal Operations (popularly known as the Dilley Report) concluded that consolidation was not practical at that time because of the wide difference between tax rates in the two municipalities.

A more recent overall statistical study of the financial consequences of consolidation, the Fischel report, indicated in 1971, that the tax rates appeared to be converging.

In the remaining two articles, the Committee will review the expected effects of consolidation on certain municipal functions. The effect on municipal functions is, however, only one of the general areas which should be considered in any consolidation study. Other important considerations include the tax shifts that could occur between the two municipalities as a result of consolidation, and various intangible considerations, such as the citizens' views on whether they consider that they want to belong to the Borough, the Township, or a wider community of both Princetons.

Word of Warning
End-of-summer
Skinny-dip?
You'll get a frosty
Winter nip

Depends on what time of day you plan that dip—nights have been cool, and last weekend brought early morning readings in the 50s for the first time since spring, but daytime readings have now returned to the 80s.

The forecast over the next few days calls for an end to all that persistent rain. The Man did say that there is a slight possibility of a shower around Saturday, but nothing of a lasting nature. For the record, September rainfall was 25 per cent above normal for the entire 30-day period after the month was just four days old.

1972 his car was struck by lightning.

In Britain, where women are reported to be especially chronic triskaidekaphobics, a London housewife refuses to leave her bedroom on a Friday the 13th. That means that about four times each year her husband, not a triskaidekaphobic, must nonetheless stay at home and run the household.

In the United States, an organization was reportedly formed several years ago to campaign for a 13-month calendar that would somehow be arranged so a Friday the 13th would occur each month. The organizers reasoned that 13 such Fridays would amount to some sort of double whammy that would cancel out the jinx.

Unknown Fate. No one has heard from these people in recent years. Their fate is unknown.

Little comfort, meanwhile, is forthcoming for triskaidekaphobics. They can be advised to avoid wearing green; avoid walking on cracks in sidewalks; to make a wish when encountering a black cat; to throw salt over the shoulder after spilling some; and to refrain from lighting a cigarette from a match that has already been used to light two others.

The next Friday the 13th comes in December. Good luck.

Merged Health Boards?

In a nice bit of timing, Princeton's governing bodies moved toward consolidating Borough and Township health boards in the same week as the Joint Consolidation Study Committee's first report.

Last Thursday, the Township Board of Health's chairman, Margaret Sprout, reported that the necessary ordinance will be introduced by Township Committee September 23. An identical ordinance was introduced by Borough Council this Tuesday. If both are passed by December 31, a consolidated board can begin operations in one calendar year: on January 1, 1976.

removing tree-roots so TV cameras can be drawn through the lines to show up leaks and breaks.

Throughout, the engineers will use such techniques as smoke-testing to show where leaks are, flooding with dyed water and then monitoring, tying in weather records with records of flow at the sewer treatment plant.

For example, the plant is designed to take 2.8 million gallons per day. In July, a very dry month, the flow was only 1.73 million, and there would be no problem, Mr. Harney says, if this kind of flow would keep up. But sometimes it can be 4.3 million a month; due, Mr. Harney believes, to infiltration and inflow.

And when it's all done, Federal EPA engineers will give their verdict: thorough line repair or a bigger plant? It could be 1976 before there is an answer.

PATRONAGE LACKING

For Community Bus Service. Have Princeton residents "voted with their bodies" that they aren't interested in bus service?

The question, relating to lack of those bodies on Loop buses, was raised Monday night by Township Committee as Committee member William Sutphin declared "This is where I get off!" He cast the lone "no" vote against transfixing the ailing bus system with another $3,500 to

New Dog Law

If you've been away all summer, you may not know that the Borough has a new dog-restraint law. It went into effect August 15.

Borough residents must keep dogs on a leash no longer than eight feet every time the dog is off its owner's property. The animal must also be accompanied by a "responsible person."

That law applies 24 hours a day—night and day.

Dogs picked up will be taken to SAVE on Herron-town Road and owners must pay $20 to reclaim the animal, plus a $4 per day boarding charge.

If, after complaint, the health officer finds your dog "vicious," the animal will have to be muzzled.

Cats need not be leashed, but they will be taken into custody if they are inhabiting abandoned buildings.

keep it alive through October.

Mr. Sutphin did, however, vote for applying to the state for money to help meet bus expenses, although he warned Committee that not one experimental bus route had been awarded state funds.

Princeton has already asked for Federal money, but Committee member Abbot Low Moffat said he understood that nine months might elapse before there is even a Federal reply, to say nothing of a Federal grant. State money would pay one-half the operating costs until next July, when the aid might even provide three-fourths of these costs, Mr. Moffat reported.

If the state says "no," the bus system will probably have to die October 31, he said.

All Aboard? More people are expected to use buses now that fall has come, explained Mayor Jay Bleiman. He stressed the experimental nature of the present bus system, and warned that some subsidy would always be necessary.

Some form of mass transportation is needed in Princeton, Committee members said repeatedly. It's just that the present system may not be the right one. Mr. Moffat said most bus companies need a full year to try a new system.

Last week, a four-day week, 741 riders climbed aboard, but three of the four days were "free": 352 people (including free-loading school children) rode on Tuesday; 133 (including free-loading senior citizens) rode Thursday; 157 (including free-loading newcomers to the community) rode Friday. The Chamber of Commerce paid for the first two, Borough and Township governments for the newcomers.

"Those free riders now know the bus exists, and they may ride again," said Mayor Bleiman. "It's important for the record to see what happens in a full six months' of experimentation." But he suggested, and Committee agreed, on a possible end October 15.

Republican candidate Duffy Hutter, a Transportation Committee member, urged passage of the money to carry buses through October; but her running mate, John McGee, said Princeton needed better mass transportation and added, "This isn't panning out."

For a while, it looked as though Mr. Sutphin would carry the day. Committee member Margaret Broadwater said it was "an agonizing decision; you can argue it both ways," and her colleague, Barbara Smoyer, said little during the discussion until she finally commented, just before the vote, that she was concerned about losing the momentum already gained.

University Back to Red Ink: $500,000 Worth

President William G. Bowen has announced that Princeton University experienced a deficit of slightly over $500,000 in the fiscal year which ended June 30, 1974. In reporting on the financial situation at the first Faculty meeting of the academic year, Mr. Bowen said that recent developments in the national economy have served to undermine some of the assumptions of the University's provisional budget plan.

He said that new estimates are now being made to determine whether the provisional plan must be modified. He termed the rapidly rising cost of energy, possibly $1 million more than expected, the greatest cause of concern for the immediate future.

The deficit for the past year had been predicted last January at about $216,000. That estimate subsequently was raised to approximately the $500,000 deficit experienced. The University's budget was balanced in the two previous fiscal years.

Mr. Bowen listed some of the changes between January and the end of the 1973-74 fiscal year. He said:

"As always there were forces pushing in both directions. Serving to decrease the deficit were the following factors: expenses of operating the physical plant were less than forecast in January because of the unusually warm winter; income from our existing commercial real estate was greater; and a higher than expected level of government support for scholarships."

Annual Giving Down. "Unhappily, other factors tending to increase the deficit outweighed these favorable developments: the Annual Giving campaign came in somewhat below our projected figure; income to several campus operations—the computer center and the student center, for example—was lower than expected, and there were some budget overruns associated with unexpectedly large inflationary cost increases," Mr. Bowen continued.

"We must always expect some short run variations of this kind (both plus and minus) in a budget approaching $100 million. Without question, Princeton University is strong financially—especially in comparison with most other colleges and universities. A deficit of this magnitude in a single year certainly is not to be regarded as a great disaster, calling for hasty or ill-considered corrective action. However, Princeton must be able to operate over the longer term with a balanced budget if our fundamental strengths are not to be eroded."

The president and economist continued: "For both the current year and the longer term, the outlook is much more worrisome than it was only nine months ago. For one thing, the very depressed state of the securities markets well affect our fund-raising efforts. It is too soon to fathom with any certainty the future impact on us of government budget-cutting efforts now being considered in Washington.

"And even some very recent predictions of a leveling off, or perhaps even decline, in food costs have been replaced by more dire forecasts associated with drought conditions and the like."

Energy Costs Up. "The most serious development, however, has to do with the costs of energy, particularly electricity and natural gas. Public Service in New Jersey has recently applied for rate increases which, together with an already approved fuel cost pass-through provision, would result in a rise in our energy budget this year of absolutely unprecedented magnitude," he said.

"Thus, the cost of a unit of natural gas could well be almost double the rate used in preparing the budget for the current year, and the cost of electricity per kilowatt hour might be on the order of 80 higher than previously estimated. Together these changes could force our expenditure up by more than a million dollars."

Mercer County Jail to await the setting of bail by a county judge.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the suspect, whose description fitted that supplied by the victim, was seen Sunday at 9:35 p.m. by a woman university professor, standing at the intersection of Nassau and Witherspoon Streets. He has been described as 18-20, 175 pounds, clean shaven, with a short Afro hairstyle and wearing a leather cap.

He was arrested by Sgt. Ralph Procaccino, Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt and Det. Anthony Ranfone and taken into custody. After questioning, he was charged with sexual assault.

The victim was attacked at 11:30 as she was walking near Prospect Gardens. She told police that a man approached and asked for a light. When she told him she had none, he grabbed her, she said, and dragged her to a nearby vacant house and assaulted her.

She screamed, she said, but no one responded to her cries. Afterwards, she reported the attack and was treated for Operators Accused. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Draper, operators of the temporarily moribund Telebus, took a tongue-lashing from Mr. Moffat because, he charged, they have defaulted on their promise to serve the elderly, now that Crosstown '62 has stopped. He and Mayor Bleiman said elderly persons report that the Drapers aren't answering their telephone. Mr. Moffat warned that Telebus could be deprived of its license.

However, Committee unanimously introduced an ordinance allowing the Drapers to raise their 50 cent fare to a maximum of $1 (public hearing September 23), and Mayor Bleiman said the Drapers had assured him they will resume service at 50 cents if it looks as though the $1 raise is certain.

Wet Basement? The Township has been certified for Federal flood insurance and any home-owner may now obtain it at 25¢ per $100 up to $35,000 for a home.

Property-owners in Federally-defined flood hazard areas will be required to buy it if they hold mortgages acquired since last March 1 from Federally-related institutions. Most Princeton banks and savings and loans come under this category, Mr. Sutphin explained. A $3 certification fee must be paid the Township first.

A 162-signature petition was presented, asking four tennis courts for Caldwell Park in the Dodds Lane-Herrontown area. The request was forwarded to planning and recreation boards.

The ordinance requiring underground water and power lines on the approach to PCH housing may be moved from the table September 23, Mayor Bleiman reported. Committee wants to know where the $80,000 difference between underground and above-ground lines occurs. Mayor Bleiman said the figure was apparently arrived at by use of tables, not by on-site inspection.

SUSPECT ARRAIGNED In Rape of Cned. A Monmouth County man was arraigned at 1:59 Monday morning in Borough Court after being charged with the rape Friday night of an 18-year old Princeton University sophomore.

lacerations. Capt. Theodore Lewis conducted the investigation for the Borough police.

Woman in Mugged. A Princeton woman was mugged and robbed of her purse Sunday night on Wiggins Street and a second woman had her purse grabbed on Stanworth about an hour earlier. "This is what society has to put up with," commented Chief Carnevale.

The first victim told police that she was walking on Wiggins near Greenview around 10 p.m. when she heard someone running up behind her. As she turned, a man grabbed her purse, knocked her to the ground and dragged her into the roadway.

After taking her brown leather handbag containing $30, he ran off in the direction of Princeton Cemetery on Witherspoon Street. The victim was taken by patrol car to Princeton Medical Center, where she was treated for abrasions of the side of her face, both hands and knees.

She described her attacker as about six feet tall wearing a multi-colored shirt or jacket.

A Princeton woman resident told police that as she was walking in Stanworth, a man came up behind her, grabbed her purse containing $10 and ran off toward John Street. She described him as a tall, thin teenager and Chief Carnevale said that it was probable, from the two descriptions, that the same individual committed both crimes.

Capt. Lewis and Patrolmen Lenhardt, John Holcombe and Robert Mucciarelli responded to both attacks. In each, they searched the area without success.

HOME IS ENTERED

On Little Brook Road. The home of Thomas M. Gospil, 92 Little Brook Road, was entered last week and ransacked but police report it is still undetermined what is missing.

A screen over an unlocked kitchen window was pried to gain entry, police said. Ptl. Jerry Offredo investigated.

The home of Bernard A. Cooke, 87 Rollingmead, was also entered early last week.

Failing in his attempt to force french doors leading to the living room, the thief, police said, then forced a basement door. Entry was limited to the basement and, police said, it appears that nothing was taken. Ptl. Anthony Gaylord investigated.

Borough police report that a Bayard Lane apartment was entered in daylight hours between 9 and 12:45 Monday by an intruder who went through a window on the north side of the building.

Taken were a $350 portable color TV set and a camera valued at $200. Ptl. William Fitch investigated.

PARKED CAR DAMAGED

By Vandals. A Volkswagen, parked in the driveway of its owner, E.I. Heiba, 11 Balsam Lane, was damaged last week by vandals who cut both rear tires and smashed the rear window.

Police said that a neighbor heard something about 11:30 that night but saw nothing in the darkness.

KNOCKED UNCONSCIOUS

By Intruder. A Wheatshaf Lane man was knocked unconscious Sunday morning by an intruder after he went to investigate a noise in the cellar.

Gregory Fawkes, 22, 38 Wheatshaf, was taken by the First Aid Squad to Princeton Medical Center where he was treated and admitted. He sustained abrasions and contusions of the right forearm, neck and upper back. Police said he complained of a pain in his head and appeared to be in shock.

According to Chief Frederick Porter, Mr. Fawkes heard sounds at 5:30 in the morning and at 6:30 heard a strange noise in the cellar. He went to investigate and was struck by an unknown object. He did not regain consciousness until around noon, police said, when he called the operator who notified police.

The police investigation revealed that a cellar door had been smashed with a cinderblock. Apparently the intruder was frightened away after the attack, police said, because nothing was taken. No weapon was recovered.

The investigation revealed that a neighbor heard noises about 6 a.m., looked out a window but saw nothing. Sgt. Norman Servis, Sgt. Michael Kopliner and Det. Frank Bocciafuso are continuing the investigation.

Chief Porter reported that police have investigated a series of entries in the northeast section of the Township where Wheatshaf Lane is located. Noting that a neighbor heard noises but did not call the police, Chief Porter urged citizens to report anything suspicious, "no matter how small or little the case may seem to be. Let the police decide. We must have the assistance of the public and community if we hope to lick the battle of crime," he said.

"A thousand pairs of eyes are better than one. Police can't be everywhere at one time."

'QUIET' BAR TO OPEN
At Peacock Inn. This Friday night Agnes and Chuck Sqain will open the swinging doors to what they frankly admit will not be a swinging new cocktail bar located off the main entrance hall in the Peacock Inn at 20 Bayard Lane.

In the nine years since the Swains purchased the Peacock Inn, customers have increasingly expressed a desire for a different type of cocktail bar. "The demand for a quiet place to chat and have a drink—after work, before dinner, after theater, or even in the mid-afternoon when the office holds too many distractions for quiet discussion—grew to be insistent," Mr. Swain said. So early this summer work began on such a bar, supplementing the downstairs Peacock Alley and the Inn's service bar on the main floor.

Walls were removed, plaster exposed, ceilings supported with solid beams (a 250-year-old piece of an original beam is on display), and the bar installed. Nothing plastic or artificial was used, Mr. Swain said, that might detract from the craftsmanship of the 67-year-old master carpenter employed for the task. "The rooms look as though they have always been part of the original historic building," said the owner.

The Peacock Inn provides lodging, food and drink in an authentic Colonial structure. Built in 1776 by Jonathan Deare, the house was home to a number of early Princeton families when it stood on University Place, where Princeton University's Commons facilities stand today.

The Libbey family moved the house to 20 Bayard Lane in 1878 and lived in it until 1912. At that time they built and occupied the Greenholm house which is now Miss Mason's School.

GIFT OFFER CONTINUES

At Princeton Savings. Special events marking the opening of Princeton Savings and Loan Association's new office in a 19th century house at 2431 Main Street, Lawrenceville, will continue for a month. Bank president William H. Boozer said gifts for new accounts will be available at the new office as well as the Nassau Street facility.

Restored, expanded and transformed into a savings center complete with drive-in teller facilities, the old home, circa 1850, replaces temporary quarters occupied by Princeton Savings in February, 1973, at 2649 Main Street. Several thousand area residents attended the housewarming party last Saturday.

In what is considered an innovation among bankers, Princeton Savings' new office provides both a sit-down teller's window at the end of the counter, and a sit-down "check desk" for customers' convenience.

A conference room connects the banking floor to the older part of the house. Decorated in olive green and pale yellow, it contains a Queen Anne conference table with chairs covered in a soft olive fabric, and a fire place. The former kitchen serves as an employees lounge.

Both front and rear entrances provide access to customers from the parking area.

"If the calls we've received to date are any indication, we've obviously done the right thing with our choice of colors," Mr. Boozer reported. The savings association has had approximately 30 inquiries from people who admire the exterior coloring—pale yellow with

WHO'S WHO

Conservative Tone. The new owner, Mrs. O'Connor, started the Peacock Inn in that year, naming it after an existing inn in the Midlands of England. The Swains are the sixth owners. Other have included the Robert Benhams, who founded the Wine & Game Shop on Nassau Street.

In world of kaleidoscopic change, the Swains hope to maintain some unchanging standards in their new bar. Rules include coat and tie for gentlemen (after 5 o'clock); appropriate dress for ladies; and "courteous, temperate, soft-spoken behavior." The Swains will offer food service from noon to midnight.

Mr. Swain predicts that the new bar will be as quiet and reserved as the Peacock Alley is informal and noisy. The basement bar, which caters mostly to young people, will continue operations from 5 to 10 daily except Sunday.

The new cocktail bar will be open from noon to midnight, or later, daily except Sunday. The Peacock Inn is located just off Nassau Street, around the corner from Borough Hall.

MUFFLER REMOVED. From Backhoe. To the long list of unlikely articles stolen in Princeton, Borough police can add a muffler from a backhoe.

Chief Michael Carnevale reported that the $50 muffler was taken from a backhoe at a construction site at the foot of University Place and Nassau Street. A mechanic for the Public Service Gas Company reported the theft.

Watches Taken. Two men's wristwatches and a woman's watch were stolen Friday from a front display at Marsh & Company, 30 Nassau Street. Total value: $64.95.

A Princeton youth parked his 10-speed bicycle behind the Firestone Library Friday and when he returned, the rear wheel was missing. Police report the cost to replace the wheel is between $30 and $50.

News Of The CHURCHES

CROP WALKERS SOUGHT

In Churches Sunday. Organizers of the "Walk for the Hungry," scheduled for Sunday, October 6, will be in area churches this Sunday to explain their goals and to register people interested in walking or sponsoring a walker.

The organizing group is CROP, which hopes to raise funds to alleviate the acute hunger problem throughout the world. CROP members, including members of area churches and civic organizations, hope that 400 to 500 people will walk a 10-mile route to raise $20,000 in Princeton. The money will be secured as walkers enlist sponsors to pledge an amount of money for each mile the walker covers in the route.

Similar CROP walks will be conducted throughout New Jersey that Sunday.

Hollylane Farm

If you've dreamed of owning your own country mini-estate in Princeton, you'll fall in love when you see this charming brick and frame colonial home at the end of a winding lane in a beautifully wooded area of Princeton.

You'll love entertaining in the rustic library with hand crafted cabinets, beamed ceiling, and a spacious early American hearth. Or, how about a Princeton dinner party alfresco on the wisteria-covered patio that overlooks an exquisite formal garden, after which you can retire for a cordial next to the warm fireplace in the formal living room.

Upstairs, there are four comfortable bedrooms and two full baths. And, yes, the guest room does have its own back stairway and a rustic fireplace to boot.

The horse paddock and mini-barn add still another dimension to this "storybook" setting, which can be yours if you call us soon.

There are two separate contiguous building lots which are also available at a reasonable price. Call us for the details.

The Cabin Within a House

Our newest listing in West Windsor near the high school has got to be the most unique Dutch Colonial that you've ever seen. Rustic atmosphere pervades from the massive stone fireplace in the beamed living room, through an elegant colonial dining room, and into a wide plank panelled eat-in kitchen with its own fireplace for warmth. There are three comfortable spacious bedrooms, in all and two full baths. As if this weren't enough at this price the big surprise is a log cabin family room of hand sawn logs focused upon a massive stone fireplace. See it before the open house. $61,000

On The Way To Honeybrook Lake

Colonial countryside charm is what this rural estate-like property near Hopewell Valley Country Club is all about. Beamed ceilings are the theme from the graceful living room with corner fireplace and gorgeous bay window, through the cozy den with hearth, to the extensive dinner party-like dining room, and finally to the rustic completely modernized country kitchen. You should see the beautiful hand-made cabinets in the kitchen! Upstairs, are four or five comfortable bedrooms one of which has a working fireplace. The outbuildings include a cabana for the in-ground sylvan pool, a separate heated office with adjoining woodshed, a two story barn, a workshop and a quaint little spring house where Honey Lake gets started.

Forty Six Acre Horse Farm Near Griggstown

Some say it used to be a stagecoach depot on the way to Princeton. But, that was long ago. Now, it's a fantastic horse farm with plenty of income from its five apartments to help cover a great investment in a prime piece of land. The main house has substantially new, recently refurbished quarters for the proud new owner, and several apartments for guests or for income. The gigantic barn a short distance away has many box stalls, storage areas for hay, and a handsome paddock and riding ring. The exceptional land has good frontage and is significantly cleared yet wooded enough for a potential development of exceptional homes in a fine historic area. Fronting on open space, and in a historic area where George Washington used to roam; it is now available for $265,000

Princeton Borough Investment Opportunity

Within walking distance of Firestone Library is one of the finest and largest duplexes that we've ever seen, with at least four bedrooms on each side. Downstairs, there is a living room, dining room and kitchen plus a host of other possibilities in each apartment. It's situated on a quiet and charming street where children walk to everything and you get a break to partake of everything Princeton has to offer also. Why not move into one side and make payments as if you hardly had any mortgage at all? Call us for the particulars on financing, and a sound analysis of this investment opportunity.

Slate Roof Hopewell Charmer

This exceptional Hopewell Borough two-family home is situated on a tree lined avenue just a hop, skip and a jump from the elementary school. It has three bedrooms on both sides, plus a living room, kitchen and a hobby room downstairs. What's exceptional about it is that it's been completely restored from stem to stern: heating, plumbing, electricity, roof, exterior, and many other things too numerous to mention. Some smaller duplexes sell for $10,000 less, but it would probably cost you about twice that figure to put them in the shape this house is in. Want a good investment or first home of your own? Find one like this one and forget the worries of being a landlord while you make inflation work for you.

Did you ever hear of an ophthalmoscope? It is an instrument that projects light through the pupil onto the retina of the eye. If the retina is damaged by sunburn or excessive glare, it will show spots. Once such spots form on the retina, they will remain there, and will permanently impair the vision. The retina is the only place in the body where live nerve tissue and blood vessels can be seen, not covered by skin or muscles. Thus, the ophthalmoscope is useful in aiding the diagnoses of many different types of ailments.

Auction Saturday of Henry Van Dyke's Effects Brings Back Nostalgic Memories of Bygone Era

"Henry Van Dyke? Who was he?"

A generation of lissome Gibson Girls and stalwart young gentlemen—great-grandparents now, if they're still alive—would be astonished to hear the question.

Fisherman who responded to the famous angler who wrote "Little Rivers," families who gathered around the Christmas tree while Father read "The Other Wise Man," young ladies who swooned over the chaste love poetry, they know who Henry Van Dyke was.

So do many Princeton residents still living. The Van Dyke home, "Avalon," stood where the YM-YWCA now is, and lent its name to the street. After Henry Van Dyke died in 1933, a famed and honored poet, revered for half a century of his 81 years, his furniture and memorabilia were moved to a house 'way out in the country, on Snowden Lane. For many years, the house has been the home of Miss Elizabeth Wight. She has decided now to sell the Van Dyke and Wight furniture and household goods at an auction to be held at the Snowden Lane house (number 523) starting at 9 a.m. Saturday. (Exhibit this Friday from noon to 5).

The inter-relationships between the Wight and Van Dyke families are so intricate that even Miss Wight isn't sure how the genealogy goes. She inherited the contents of the Snowden Lane house when Mrs. Van Dyke died.

"Actually, one of the things in the auction will be a family genealogy," says Lester Slatoff, the auctioneer. "It was one of the last things Van Dyke wrote before he died and it's a huge thing—three of four inches thick, in typescript."

The Poet's Desk. The poet probably compiled it on the Empire secretary-desk (see photo) at which he did most of his writing, and where he sat to answer his correspondence.

A rare 1810 Philadelphia sideboard, quite possibly by Ephraim Haines, the cabinet-maker who worked for financier Stephan Girard, is on the list and so is a Hepplewhite chest of drawers which has been in the family for many generations. A Sheraton chest, of cherry wood, will be auctioned also.

Van Dyke's books have already been presented to libraries, but Mr. Slatoff likes an 1840 mahogany china cabinet which could be converted, he says, to a fine bookcase.

The Van Dykes were a missionary family, and from their travels in China they brought back small bibelots, many of Cloisonne. These, too, will be part of the auction.

VAN DYKE'S DESK: This carved secretary-desk belonged to Henry Van Dyke, the popular writer of the early 20th century who taught in Princeton and made his home here. It is one of the Van Dyke items up for auction this Saturday. The "secretary" is Molly Fisher, Snowden Lane neighbor and friend of Elizabeth Wight, present owner of the Van Dyke-Wight family treasures.

Old Oriental rugs, more than a century old, a Jerome and Darrow mantel clock and the prism-hung mantel garnitures known as "Girardoles" are all in the auction catalogue.

Poet, Teacher. Henry Van Dyke? He held, from 1899, the Murray professorship of English literature at Princeton, a chair endowed especially for him. Nathaniel Burt, one of today's Princeton writers, described Van Dyke in an essay as "American Presbyterianism's most famous dominie preacher, pastor, inspirational pamphleteer, teacher, champion of Tennyson."

Mr. Burt writes that Van Dyke, a man small in stature, was "charming, vital, a bit cocksure, a bit belligerent in his self-importance." A contemporary, Mr. Burt writes, once described Van Dyke contemptuously as "the only man who can strut sitting down."

He wrote 60 books and pamphlets over a period of more than 50 years, most of them best-sellers. "The Other Wise Man" is still in print but the love and nature poems seem trite and faded today.

This genteel era was a kind of "twilight zone" in American poetry, Mr. Burt writes, and Van Dyke was its twilight star. In 1920, Scribner's brought out an 18-volume set of his complete works, bound in light blue leather. Van Dyke was sought after as a writer of elegies to the departed, odes to solemn occasions.

A poet of the outdoors and nature, he wrote of the open fields, trees, brooks and birds of the pastoral New Jersey of his day. Mr. Burt calls Van Dyke's world "a world with a sundial in the middle of it, and poetry as a record of strolls through flowers and fair weathers."

Changing Times. With World War I, this idyllic world was shattered and the poets and writers who followed left Mr. Van Dyke's sunlit world of love far, far behind.

In 1930, when Sinclair Lewis received the Nobel prize, Mr. Van Dyke declared the award was "an insult to America." Mr. Lewis retaliated with a passage in his Nobel acceptance speech in which he dwelt at scornful length without mentioning Van Dyke by name, on the poet and the literary era he epitomized.

"Poetry for the cultivated person of literary tastes, but not the professionally or professorially literary," is the way Mr. Burt characterizes Van Dyke's writings.

For Princeton residents, antique collectors or not, the world of Henry Van Dyke has a special and local meaning. Some who remember the frail old poet and his splendid, square, yellow plaster "Avalon" may find pleasant nostalgia in Saturday's auction.

READY MCCARTER?
 Almost. The 1974-75 repertory season will open at McCarter Theatre on Thursday, October 10 with Eugene O'Neill's "Beyond the Horizon," Pulitzer-prize winner from 1920.

As everybody who follows theatre must know by now, McCarter's new producing director will be—indeed, is—Michael Kahn, artistic director of the American Shakespeare Company of Stratford, Conn. The arrangement is that Mr. Kahn will work with both theatres and will bring to McCarter many people who have worked with him in Stratford. McCarter operates in the winter, Stratford in the summer and theatre observers feel the arrangement will be supple and productive.

After the O'Neill, which will run until October 20, McCarter will present John Ford's "Tis Pity She's a Whore." Princeton theatre-goers will have a chance to compare Mr. Kahn's treatment with that of Theatre Intime, which produced the Ford tragedy last season. "Tis Pity" will play from November 14 to 24.

After the mid-year break, McCarter will resume on February 13 with Tennessee Williams' comedy, "Kingdom of Earth," scheduled to play through February 23. The playwright is said to be planning to attend rehearsals and auditions, perhaps re-writing at the same time. He originally wrote the play as "Seven Descents of Myrtle", and has revised it extensively since the initial production in 1968.

The final McCarter play will be Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," in the production mounted at Stratford last summer in the costuming of 1865. "Romeo and Juliet" will play from March 27 to April 6.

"SEX" AT MCCARTER
Woody Allen's Spoof. "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex (But Were Afraid to Ask)", Woody Allen's spoof of the book by Dr. Reuben, will open McCarter Theatre's film program this Friday and Saturday with two showings each evening, one at 7 and the late show at 9.

"The Godfather" will continue the series with showings September 20, 21, and 22. A double bill—"King of Hearts" and "Harold and Maude"—will be screened the weekend of September 27 and 28.

Admission to McCarter movies is $2. Tickets are available at the theatre's box-office starting at 10 a.m. the day of showing, and at the door.

In Woody Allen's film, made in 1972, the writer-comic carries Dr. Reuben's approach to its hilarious extremes. The film is divided into seven parts, including one called "Do Aphrodisiacs Work?" with Allen playing a court jester down on his luck, and "What Happens During Ejaculation?" in which Allen, a timid sperm inside the body of a man trying to seduce a girl, is all dressed up as a paratrooper, ready for his big moment.

Others in the cast are Tony Randall, Burt Reynolds, Gene Wilder, Lou Jacoby and Lynn Redgrave.

"ARMS AND THE MAN"
Country Auction First. The new George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick will open its season and its new theatre next Friday, September 20, with Shaw's "Arms and the Man" at 9, but this Friday at 7:30, there will be a "Country Auction" at the theatre to help buttress the budget.

The George Street Playhouse is at 414 George Street, and the place is already full of things like an antique roll-front filing cabinet and typewriter table, old canning jars, scales, books, lanterns, household Players Plan Casting Try-outs for "R.U.R.", the Princeton Community Players' first production of the 1974-75 season, will be held at 16 Bolf Mar Avenue, Grovers Mill, on this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m.

"R.U.R." stands for "Rossum's Universal Robots" and was published in 1923 by the Czech playwright Karel Capek. "Robot" is the Czech word for worker, and this play introduced it to the English language with the meaning "mechanical man."

"R.U.R." is the prototype of modern science fiction in which mankind is often portrayed as threatened by the mechanical monsters it invents.

There are parts for nine men and five women and all Princeton area residents are invited to audition. Play dates will be November 8, 9, 10, 14, 15 and 16. For further information, call 896-1119.

The auction will also offer a card for membership in the Playhouse which will entitle the winning buyer to ten admissions. Admission to the auction is free, and anyone can still donate to the event.

"Arms and the Man" is being produced by Eric Krebs, founder of Brecht West, the small experimental theatre in New Brunswick that operated from 1968-1972. The George Street Playhouse was established by Mr. Krebs and John Merochik as a non-profit corporation, and is funded by small grants from corporations and business firms in the area.

The new theatre is in a former supermarket. It has been designed with a thrust stage that has seating on three sides of the performance area so that no member of the audience will be more than 20 feet from the stage.

PLAYHOUSE
Tamarind Seed. Suspense plays second fiddle to an old fashioned romance between Russian agent Omar Sharif and British Julie Andrews in this film set against a backdrop of international intrigue and espionage.

This unabashed love story pits the virile charm of Sharif, a Russian military attaché based in Paris, against the loyal British propriety of Andrews, as assistant to a lower echelon official in London, who become objects of suspicion in the cold war politics of their respective government.

The film is ideal for those who miss the florid romances that have virtually disappeared from the screen. Highlighted by beautifully photographed locations in London, Paris and Barbados, the film is visually stunning.

Ms. Andrews first meets Sharif in Barbados, where she has gone to recover from an unhappy affair with a married British air attaché. Sharif attempts to break through her prim resistance to his charm but gets no further than a warm friendship. She is soon contacted by a British intelligence agent who warns her that Sharif is enlisting her as a spy, while Sharif finds he is about to be purged because of his liberal views of Communism.

Go and enjoy an intelligent romantic adventure that doesn't rely on nudity or bedroom scenes to portray two adults failing in love.

GARDEN

Our Time. Latest in the current wave of nostalgia pieces, "Our Time" is a wistful portrait of the sexual coming-of-age of two friends in a posh girls' boarding school during the mid 1950s when both lose their virginity. One survives nicely but the other sets the film's nostalgic sentimentality as she veers toward tragedy.

Photographed as if it were a 'fifties photo album come to life, the film centers on Pamela Sue Martin and Betsy Slade, who share a room and all their secrets. Pamela, rebellious, coolly beautiful and self-possessed, contrives a night away from the school with a preppie and emerges successfully deflowered.

Things go less well for Betsy, a self-doubting Plain-Jane, who after being rebuffed by a handsome heart-throb, allows herself to end up in an embarrassingly awkward back seat fiasco. Her instant pregnancy is followed by an illegal abortion by a well-meaning medical school student.

As an inevitable female counterpart to the "Summer of '42" and "Class of '44", "Our Time" has some affecting performances (including one by Princeton's University senior Parker Stevenson, but the general tone is sudsy. The details of the lights-out-at-ten boarding school life, chaperoned dances, late-at-night girls' sexual talk, is just a razor's edge away from soap opera and molds the performers into one dimensional figures.

PRINCE

Harrad Summer. A sequel to "The Harrad Experiment" and like most sequels, lukewarm. The original focused on four students attending the world's first sex education college; it was trite and full of sexual clichés and its only redeeming attribute was its success at the box office.

The four are still around: the swinging chick still allied with Mr. Shy and the former campus virgin still trying to keep up with the all-around stud. They're still mired in sexual clichés, too, only this time the film takes the quartet to each others' homes. School's out for vacation.

The plot? Oh, yes, the swinging chick runs into a former boy friend; the stud encounters past bedmates and ethnic parents anxious that he marry. The other two face even worse parental reactions to their lifestyle at Harrad.

The inevitable clichés arise with the parents smack in the middle—the stuffy father, the indifferent father and so on. The most interesting problem—the efforts of the four to accommodate them-

Norman Kennedy, born in Aberdeen, Scotland, is a traditional singer with deep roots in the traditions of his native country. He joined the Aberdeen Folk Music Club in 1963 and soon became its most popular singer. Mike Seeger heard him there and invited him to the 1965 Newport Folk Festival. Since that time Norman has appeared at major folk festivals and clubs throughout the U.S.

Admission for the concert is $2.50 general admission and $2 for students. Members get a discount and Society memberships will be available at the door.

ADVANCED LESSONS SET

At Piano Group. An expanded program for advanced piano students has been added to the schedule of the Princeton Piano Group with the addition to the staff of Margaret Lambert, Princeton piano teacher, solo performer, and accompanist.

Mrs. Lambert will concentrate particularly on advanced students and will emphasize a wide range of piano literature, including contemporary and jazz composers as well as the more traditional classical and romantic materials. Students will also be encouraged to compose music.

Classes are held at the Unitarian Church on Cherry Hill Road, and the fall term begins on September 16. Under the new program, each student will have a weekly individual lesson, and in addition will participate in a monthly class in which all students will perform for each other and play ensemble music together.

Mrs. Lambert, a native Australian, has been a resident of Princeton since 1969. She received a degree in Music education and Piano from the Elder Conservatory of Music in Adelaide, So.

selves to each other's family background—unfortunately gets the least attention. Alas, this is a bummer for the soft core addict, too. There is little emphasis on bedroom manners and not much nudity either. This R rated film deserves another mark: F for failure.

PRINCE

Andy Warhol's "Frankenstein." Guaranteed to turn even the most stable stomach to nausea, Warhol's "Frankenstein" uses every one of its three dimensions to conjure up some of the most graphically perverse moments on film. The 95-minute, X-rated film was produced in an excellent 3-D process.

Without question, this is one of Warhol's kinkiest outings yet. Writer-director Paul Morrissey has reworked Mary Shelley's classic tale into a mind-boggling exercise in sadism and necrophilia, filling the screen with raw livers, spleens, hearts, lungs and even an occasional testicle.

Decapitations, disembowlements and the sexual abuse of a pieced-together female body are all played out. In spite of the tongue-in-cheekness of the script, the dominant thrust of the film goes beyond horror into a disturbing linkage between sexual desire and brutal carnage. A high number of walkouts can be expected.

Again, Joe Dellesandro has the major role, as in most of Warhol's films. This time, he is a young farmer who recognizes one of the heads of the Baron's monster as that of his best friend. His performance is flat and inexpressive. Monique Van Vooren, the only other name actor in the film, spends her time luring virile farmhands to her boudoir.

At best, this film offers nothing more than outrageous novelty.

almost free, what can be exchanged, shared or acquired at discount or by scholarship, the PPYP is the result of concern by a group of dedicated volunteers over the lack of people-to-people communication within Princeton. The PPYP was formally commended by the New Jersey State General Assembly and Senate in separate statements citing "New Jersey's first non-commercial, nonprofit directory" and commending "the over 200 people who, by generous donation of time, talent and money, produced the PPYP."

Modeled after the "Whole Earth Catalog" and "People's Yellow Pages" in other cities, PPYP's listings cover topics as diverse as adoption, the aging, and the arts through welfare, yoga and youth.

The editorial style reflects the individuality of its many contributors, ranging from serious commentary on social issues to light-hearted discussions of fishing, biking and bulletin boards. Readers can find out where to pick apples and strawberries in season, which supermarkets are open on Sunday, where to go for free counseling or how to work for prison reform.

PPYP's 128 pages are the fruits of a full year of work and countless hours of volunteer effort, coordinated by Helen Spiro, PPYP's originator, and Norma Smith.

More than 200 people contributed by researching, typing, indexing, proofreading, fundraising and distributing. Illustrations are original works donated by artists and photographers who themselves reflect a cross-section of the community, including grammar and high school students to professional illustrators for New York-based magazines.

It contains no advertising, relying largely on word-of-mouth publicity. Readers pay a $2.50 donation to help cover costs.

PPYP is sold at the YWCA, the Peace Center, University Store, Center Stationers, Whole Earth Center, Cox's, Hinkson's and other selected outlets. Free copies are available for reference at the Drop In Center for Senior Citizens, the United Methodist Church, the Princeton Public Library, and the Historical Society of Princeton.

RECEPTION IS WARM
For Karelia. Last May the Princeton community enthusiastically greeted the opening of Karelia, a new store featuring Marimekko fabrics and other Finnish imports. Judging by many customers' reactions, its arrival was long overdue.

Strangely, Marimekko came to Princeton by way of Cincinnati. Several years ago, Finnish-born Marie Frey arranged with Design Research, importers of the colorful hand-printed cottons the right to carry the fabrics in her Cincinnati store called The Village Viking.

Although the bold Marimekko designs were new to that city, the shop was hugely successful; and last fall when Mrs. Frey learned the color combinations are not her family was returning pictured, you need only to ask East, she immediately began Mrs. Frey. She says, "I can tell to plan a Princeton store. you in a flash, because I know Before the moving van was them inside out and I love packed she had spoken with D-R International and persued Mary Lou Alahary of Rocky Hill, a long-time friend, to form a partnership. While Princeton did not need an introduction to these wonderful fabrics, Mrs. Frey has been surprised by the frequent comment, "It's about time."

150 Designs. Karelia, named after Mrs. Frey's birthplace in Eastern Finland, has approximately 150 bolts of the Marimekko fabric. There are

VERSATILE FABRIC: Mary Marimekko is possibly the only fabric in the world that is used for clothing, decorating and as art work. At Karelia, where there are approximately 150 different bolts of the Finnish fabric, co-owner Maria Frey shows how effective these bold designs are when stretched and used as wall hangings. This one is a red, black and white abstract.

Although the bold Marimekko designs were new to that city, the shop was hugely successful; and last fall when Mrs. Frey learned the color combinations are not her family was returning pictured, you need only to ask East, she immediately began Mrs. Frey. She says, "I can tell to plan a Princeton store. you in a flash, because I know Before the moving van was them inside out and I love packed she had spoken with D-R International and persued Mary Lou Alahary of Rocky Hill, a long-time friend, to form a partnership. While Princeton did not need an introduction to these wonderful fabrics, Mrs. Frey has been surprised by the frequent comment, "It's about time."

150 Designs. Karelia, named after Mrs. Frey's birthplace in Eastern Finland, has approximately 150 bolts of the Marimekko fabric. There are pillows (a 16-inch square is $11); dresses (toddler jumpers are $14); quilts, placemats, aprons ($16), wall hangings and whatever else you can imagine.

The wall hangings are dramatic in any room and far more economical than buying a painting. Some of the ones currently in the store and ready for hanging include a city of mosques in deep reds, a black and white silhouetted tree, several blue and red parrots perched on green and yellow leaves, and many abstracts.

Do It Yourself. A ready-made wall hanging can cost up to $60 for the 50 x 80 inch size, but Karelia also sells the stretchers and offers instructions. By doing it yourself a 24 x 24 hanging costs $10 and the same 50 x 80 inch one, approximately $36.

In addition to the cottons, there are Marimekko vinyls ($13.50 a yard) and there are perfect for tennis racket covers, bibs, aprons and porch furniture.

Another feature are the many Marimekko accessories including cocktail napkins, wrapping paper, notebooks, photo albums, pot holders, umbrellas, and even a director's chair (white or natural and it can be covered in any fabric, ($29.95).

Marimekko also produces a line of ready made clothes. Currently in the store is a beautiful long red dress which flares from the yoke. The classic lines are set off by a wide diagonal stripe on the skirt, and on a tall woman it shows every move which Mrs. Frey says is "fantastic." It also comes in a soft, rich brown, $110.

Another timeless choice at Karelia are the wool gabardine shirt jackets, skirts and fly-front pants in brown, grey or forest green. This fabric looks good almost forever and the separates are priced from $59 to $79.

Seaters in 30 colors. For the fall, D-R International has imported an Italian Veccaro sweater in three different styles and thirty colors. The store is already filled with attractive choices and Mrs. Frey laughingly said, "I don't know where we'll put them."

The many Finnish imports are just the right accessories for Marimekko decorating. There are strong Cyclac plastic baskets by Beylerian in a bright yellow, black or white. The classic round wastebasket is $10 and the square one which is a perfect double for a plant container is $8.

Then in Melamine plastic by Decembre there are large round trays, small to large stackable dishes or ashtrays that come square or round ($1 up), bowls ($5), hangers and clear jars with white, yellow black or red plastic tops.

We saw a selection of Kosta, Boda and Itala crystal. Boda loves flowers and has a solution for every need, including the mini boda for tiny bouquets and a clear egg that preserves a treasured rose without water for a week or longer, $4.95 and $15.

Last but not least is the sterling and 14 kt. hand-crafted jewelry by Ed Levin and the cheery sterling and wooden Aarikka necklaces and earrings. We felt it was all quite handsome and extremely fairly priced.

Karelia, at 20 Nassau Street, is open Monday through Saturday from 10 to 5.

starting hour, and yet a new convenience market located near the station plans to open seven days a week at this time and not close until midnight. For more than a half-year Princeton University had been looking for a tenant in the grocery and non-food sundries field to lease the old Doten garage at 140 University Place and finally chose the Wawa Food Market.

The popularity Wawa gained in the community surrounding the University of Pennsylvania was a major factor in the University's decision that this market would best serve the University and local community.

The store is spacious, (3600 sq. ft. of selling space), well-lighted, and is stocking approximately 3,000 items. These range from frozen dinners, to fresh produce to small hardware items to cat food. We also noted hot coffee, delicatessen items, health and beauty aids, small toys, cold soft drinks, paper products and a choice of magazines. In fact fresh meats appear to be the only major food not sold.

Like all convenience markets the prices are higher than those you'll find in the local supermarket chains. However, a selection of items made us feel they were comparable to those of other small markets, and to compensate there are the long hours and lack of congestion.

Wawa—an Indian name meaning wild goose—is an operating division of Millville Manufacturing Company, a New Jersey corporation started in 1803 and incorporated in 1865. It is headquartered at Wawa, Pa., approximately 20 miles southwest of Philadelphia.

OTHER PAPERS will run your classifieds for half price, or for nothing if they do not sell. In TOWN TOPICS, you'll find more ads and better results.

At McCosh Infirmary. "A View of Nature," an exhibition of photographs by Elizabeth G. C. Menzies, is being displayed at the Isabella McCosh Infirmary on the University campus. The show will be open through October from 9 to 5 daily.

Miss Menzies, a noted freelance photographer and author, has had a number of previous photographic exhibitions, including a one-woman show at the Baltimore Museum of Art. A resident of 926 Kingston Road, she is the author of books on the Upper Delaware Valley and the Millstone Valley, as well as co-author of "Princeton Architecture: A Pictorial History of Town & Campus."

She has contributed to national publications and to the Encyclopedia Americana. She has received the New Jersey Tercentenary Medal for a photograph of Albert Einstein; a Citation of Commendation from the American Association for State and Local Historians; and the author award of the New Jersey Association of Teachers of English.

The Menzies exhibit is part of a continuing effort by the Infirmary to display original works of art in preference to inexpensive and sometimes unsatisfactory reproductions.

EXHIBIT TO OPEN

Sunday at Medical Center. A photographic exhibit entitled "The Moods of Gloria Nichols" will open Sunday at the Medical Center.

Mrs. Nichols, whose studio is at 889 Lawrenceville Road, studied photography in California, Mexico and Spain. She has done commercial and industrial photography as well as portraits, pet portraits, and wedding and family groups. She is a member of the Princeton Art Association and the Princeton Art Museum, and her work has been on display on the west coast and in Princeton.

The present exhibit will feature Mrs. Nichols' photographs of the American West, some unusual portrait techniques, and her special photographs of children.

These "moods" will be interwoven with selected poetic quotations expressing their themes.

A reception will be held from 2 to 4 on Sunday in the lobby of the Medical Center, 253 Witherspoon Street. The public is invited to meet Mrs. Nichols and to view her work. Selections from the exhibit will remain on display in the hospital coffee shop.

NEW SEASON TO START

At Studio-on-Canal. The Studio-on-the-Canal begins its 19th season on September 23 with the introduction of two new workshops; one in serigraphy conducted by Ann Jones Willis; and one in painting to be taught by Hughie Lee-Smith, in addition to his regular Monday evening class.

Mrs. Willis is a graduate of Colby College, and has had extensive experience as a printmaker, with additional courses at the University of Wisconsin and the DeYoung Museum, San Francisco. Mr. Lee-Smith is associate director of the Studio-on-the-Canal and instructor of painting at New York's Art Students League.

The workshop in serigraphy for adults will meet on Wednesday mornings, 9:30-noon, and the painting group on Monday afternoons, 1:30-4:30.

Charles Dunn's water color course will be taught on Wednesday evening, 7-9, and Rex Gereleigh, director of the Studio-on-the-Canal, will continue his all-media course on Thursday evenings, 7:30-

PHARMACY TOPICS

Tetanus bacteria can enter the body through any break in the skin. Most everyone has had SOME protection against tetanus. When was YOUR last booster?

Fact: you start getting thirsty when you lose about 2 per cent of your body's water, through perspiration or excretion.

A Turkish pharmacist had found a different kind of poppy, which will yield codeine without morphine.

Doctors are finding a correlation between earlobe piercing and viral hepatitis. The immediate cause in these cases is inadequately sterilized instruments.

We inherit a tendency to allergy, just as we inherit our size and hair color. Sometimes, though, parent and child are allergic to different things.

Relief from allergic discomfort is no further away than The Lawrenceville Pharmacy. Our over-the-counter pharmaceuticals and doctor-prescribed medications can help almost everyone.

Here's a tough football question...Of the 12 quarterbacks who have won the Heisman Trophy in the history of football, only one was a left-handed passer...can you name him? Answer is Terry Baker who won the Heisman in 1962.

Here's an oddity about National Football League running back Dave Hampton...Every running back dreams of reaching the magic 1,000 yard rushing mark each season—but Hampton had unusual results the last two years...In 1972 he rushed for 995 yards and last year he rushed for 997 yards...He missed the 1,000 yard total by just five yards in 1972 and by just three yards in 1973!

Which National Football League field goal kicker had the best accuracy percentage last season?...Answer is Bruce Gossett of San Francisco who made 79 per cent of his field goal attempts.

Problems Confront New PHS Football Coach, But Jim Beachell and Squad Share Optimism

Robert Wood
Linebacker to running back?

James Beachell
Starts career as PHS coach

Robert McHugh
Unexpected help from Hun

SPORTS

In Princeton

(This is the first of three articles on the prospects of the 1974 Princeton High School football team.)

Change and the unexpected surround the start of the 1974 Princeton High School football team.

Number one on a list of changes is a new coach. Ten Septembers ago, Jim Beachell was the single wing quarterback at PHS. This fall he takes over as the fifth—and at 28—the youngest coach of the Little Tigers.

For the past four seasons, Beachell, a graduate of McPherson College, was the top assistant to his predecessor, Dick Wood, and in charge of defense. Wood, incidentally, remains in football as an assistant to Tom Murray, a member of the Princeton University 150-pound football coaching staff. As his own man, Beachell has, not unexpectedly, inroduced a number of changes. He says, in fact, that he has "changed the system entirely."

New Practice Policy. Practice sessions are different: one change has the sophomores working with the juniors and seniors so the coaches can get a longer look at them. Beachell has also changed the offense, replacing Wood's run-and-shoot attack with a less complicated formation.

Beachell, who prefers to keep to himself anything that he feels might be of interest to the opposition, declined to go into detail. "It'll be different but in a lot of ways we'll look the same," he said cryptically.

Another change is in the league structure itself: the Mercer County League this season will split into two divisions. Princeton High is a member of the smaller school or Lower Division, and because West Windsor will not compete in the division until next year PHS finds itself in the position of needing to defeat only three teams to win the lower division title: St. Anthony, Hightstown and Lawrence. The latter two will be meeting the Little Tigers for the first time.

Also new to the schedule is Bristol, Pa., which will be replaced in 1975 by West Windsor.

Shifting Personnel. In the wake of this change has come the unexpected, involving illness and injury, defections and newcomers.

In the early going, the squad, not overly large to begin with, has suffered from illness—mono and flu—naid injury. Indeed, both co-captains are out temporarily. Fullback Jeff Benfer is recovering from the removal of bone chips from his sternum—the aftermath of a butt in the chest last season. Quarterback Pete Watson is under doctor's care for recurring headaches.

Vince Ader, a probable starting guard, has moved to Montgomery Township. Some 13 players, almost half the entire sophomore squad, did not come out for practice. Beachell described the class as the poorest in school history as far as athletic competition is concerned. Personnel problems in years from now may be intense.

Offsetting these setbacks, however, has been the appearance of some new faces, including four former Hun School players. Three of the four, Nate Harris, Bob McHugh and Paul Soderman, are big and experienced and likely to contribute substantially to the fortunes of the team.

The Outlook. How will PHS fare this season? Beachell reports that he is faced with a lack of depth and experienced players. He lost 19 varsity plays through graduation from a team that won five and lost four. Only 10 lettermen return: Watson, Benfer, David Lion, Peter Barnett, Steve Bauer, Alex Kinnan, Mike Michael, John Costas, John Madden and Steve Tomlinson.

Still there is an undercurrent of optimism among the players about the upcoming season. Unquestionably, the team has been bolstered by the infusion of new faces. It not a nighty experienced team there is evidence that PHS can field a big, hard-nosed eleven.

Beachell commented: "We think we can win. If the kids give me 110 per cent when it's needed, I think we can win."

So far the squad has not had the opportunity to do anything except get in shape and learn its new plays. It was scheduled for the first of three scrimmages against Mahalaplan this Wednesday. Others before the September 28 opening with Hamilton include Howell Township and Freehold High School.

This week, TOWN TOPICS will discuss the backfield candidates. Next week's article will evaluate the line, and the concluding analysis will consider the schedule and outlook for the team.

Quarterback. Pete Watson, 190, 6-1, is the probable starter. He scored twice last year, once passing, once rushing, and is a good passer. He has a good football mind, says Beachell.

Pete Barnett, the other senior, has also been sidelined with illness. Six-two, 170, he was pressed into varsity game last year when both John Mooney and Watson were injured. He won five games as a junior on the jayvee team, according to Beachell.

Two juniors include Thommy Thomas, 140, 5-8, and Felix Brown, 155, 6-3. Thomas, said Beachell, is very fast and smart. "We're high on him." Brown's forte is his ability to throw long.

A sophomore prospect is Scott Thompson, 5-8, 155. "This kid's got talent. He's fast, he runs well," said Beachell. "In three days of practice I've seen him advance from one who wasn't sure of himself to a possible starting spot I'm very happy with him."

Fullbacks. Seniors are Jeff Benfer, 5-11, 185, a seasoned, tough, strong runner, and Bryant Lewis, almost a carbon copy of Benfer at 5-10, 185. Both may have to share the spot with junior Eric Ziolkowski, 6-0, 182. "He'll be a 200 pound fullback next year; I'm very high on him," said Beachell.

A sophomore candidate "who likes to hit" is Tony Strong, 5-6, 140 pounds. Strong, however, is a member of that long sick list.

Halfbacks. Gone is the premier running back of last year, Bobby Zinsmeister, who rushed for nine TDs and caught passes for four more.

Two senior lettermen who saw limited action running last year are Robert Wood, 171, 5-6, and David Lion, 175, 5-10. Wood played mostly defense last year. Lion is intelligent, says Beachell, and "super quick off the start."

Other seniors include Randy Bullock, a lithe, 6-1, 147-pound basketball player, who has not played football since his freshman year but two is fast and an excellent prospect nonetheless; Jerry Hall, 125, 5-5, small but quick, and Nohman El-Meligi, 142, 5-6, both of whom have never played before and David Clapp, 150, 5-6 who, like Bullock, played only as a freshman.

The list of junior backs is headed by two former Hun players, Bobby McHugh and Paul Soderman.

McHugh, a Princeton

resident, was a starting quarterback his freshman year. Last year, he switched to halfback and was the only bright spot in the Hun attack as the Red and Black suffered through a dismal season. He's 5-11, 170. "He's tough and can really run," acknowledged Beachell.

Soderman is 170, 5-8. His older brother, Pete, figures to be an outstanding tackle this year for the Blue and White.

Three other junior backs, all on the small side, are Lewis Gumbiner, 5-7, 140, David Lacey, 5-7, 156 and Rich Masley, 5-6, 155. Gumbiner was a standout player in the Princeton Midget football league.

FLAG FOOTBALL BEGINS
League Play Starts Sunday. The 1974 flag football season of the Mercer County Park Commission will begin Sunday. The eight teams in the league are sponsored by organizations in Princeton, Trenton, Ewing and Hamilton and are composed of players from throughout the county. Now in its fourth season, flag football has proved popular with players and spectators alike. The Park Commission has often stated its desire to expand the league but cites the scarcity of eligible referees.

"Just the other day," said Park Commission President Richard J. Coffee, "we had to turn down a request from a prison team. This disturbed us, as we'd certainly like to help, but there's nothing we can do without referees."

Harvard, Penn, Yale Seen as Top Challengers To Dartmouth's Bid for 6th Ivy Title in Row

A four-team race, two more entries of the dark horse variety, and two others who hope to spring an occasional upset. That's the way the 1974 derby for the Ivy football championship takes shape as teams of the eight member colleges undergo pre-season practice.

If there is a favorite, it is Dartmouth, not because the Green has a preponderance of outstanding layers but because it has established an ability to draw away from its pursuers when the going is closest. For the past five seasons, Dartmouth has never failed to finish first—twice (1969 and 1972) in a tie, but never out of the championship spot.

Harvard, Penn and Yale, all of which chased the Green down to the wire last November, only to cross the line in a three-way deadlock for runner-up honors, are given the best shot of unseating the 1973 champions. Brown, which for years had as its only goal the hope of escaping from the cellar at the expense of Columbia and sometimes Penn, is rated a long-shot this fall. The Bruins' 4-3 record a year ago included triumphs over both Dartmouth and Yale, and they narrowly missed defeating Harvard.

Cornell is included in the dark-horse bracket, if only because pre-season form indicates it is markedly better than Columbia or Princeton. The latter two will seek to beat each other and then hope they can make enough progress to have a hand in determining the eventual champion by staging a rousing upset or two.

Dartmouth (1st place, 6-1): The top three runners have departed, putting more pressure on the passing game. The Green has a veteran quarterback in Tom Snickenberg and capable receivers, especially Tom Fleming, Mark McAleenan and Alex Kandabarow.

There is strength in both the offensive and defensive lines, but the strongest area might be linebacker, with three starters returning, including all-Ivy Reggie Williams (Flint, Mich.). The key to a Dartmouth title repeat will be the development of the offensive and defensive backfields.

Harvard (tie, 2nd place, 5-2): Harvard has the runners returning, including Alky Tsitsos, Ed Cronin, and Neal Miller, but must replace quarterback Jim Stoeckel, the 1973 Ivy Player of the Year. Whoever steps in for Stoeckel will have outstanding receivers in all-Ivy split end Pat McNally, the No. 2 receiver in the nation last year, and tight end Peter Curtin.

A solid group of veterans man the lines, including All-Ivy defensive tackle Bob Shaw, and second team offensive tackle Dan Jiggets. Harvard is, however, somewhat thin on defense.

Pennsylvania (tie, 2nd place, 5-2): The Quakers have an outstanding veteran offensive unit, but a thin, graduation-depleted defensive team. The vital positions of quarterback, running back and wide receiver will be well-manned by, respectively, Marty Vaughn, the Ivy total offense leader in 1973; all-Ivy back Adolph Bellizeare, and Jack Wixted and Bob Bucola. Ten of 15 defensive lettermen have departed, but all-Ivy tackle Dirk Whitehead is a proved performer. Penn's title hopes rest on the development of the defense, especially among sophomores.

Yale (tie, 2nd place, 5-2): Running is the strength of the Elis, with captain Rudy Green, the top Ivy rusher last year, leading the way. Tom Doyle, a fine runner but spotty passer, returns at quarterback and his aerial success could be the key to a Yale title drive. He has a pair of fine receivers in Gary Fencik and tight end Bob Fernandez.

Up front the Elis have a big, mobile, experienced offensive line, anchored by all-Ivy tackle Al Moras and Charlie Palmer, a pair of 250-pounders. Defensively, all-East tackle Rich Feryok and all-East back Elvin Charity are tops. The one Question mark is the defensive line.

Brown (5th place, 4-3): Following their first winning season since 1958, the Bruins may be a title contender this year. Quarterback Pete Beatrice is a steady leader and halfback Mike Sokolowski a solid runner; they are among eight returning offensive starters.

The linebacking corps was hard hit by graduation, but the defensive line looks strong, led by end Bill Taylor and tackles Phil Bartlett and Rick Zins. Brown also has the Ivy's top placekicker in Jose Violante. Depth will be Brown's biggest problem.

Cornell (6th place, 2-5): Despite the return of 30 lettermen, Cornell has some key graduates to replace, including two all-Ivy defenders and the league's top passer. The Red has a solid corps of runners, including Dan Malone, Horace Bradshaw and Don Fanelli. Untried senior Kevin Sigler should get the job at quarterback.

Only one offensive line starter returns, guard John Phillips. The defensive line will be led by two of the league's top tackles Wes Hicks and Steve Horrigan.

Columbia (7th place, 1-6): The Lions have a number of major plusses and minuses and many big question marks for rookie coach Bill Campbell. The receiving corps is solid, led by all-Ivy tight end Mike Telep and split end Dexter Brown. George Tomasek is a steady offensive tackle and Steve Noble a reliable defensive tackle.

Doug Jackson, outstanding as a kickoff return man last year, will be counted on to revive the running game. Safety Barry Sorrels is the top defensive back. Depth and the lack of a proven quarterback are the Lions' big problems.

The league schedule starts October 5 with Columbia at Princeton and Penn at Brown. The following week, all teams will be in action against each other.

TOURNEY POSTPONED

By Rain at Springdale. Saturday's heavy rain postponed for a week the start of the annual President's Cup Tournament at Springdale Golf Club.

An 18-hole qualifying round will be held Saturday, all entrants using full handicaps to compute their net scores. The 32 low rounds will begin 18-hole match play Sunday, with action to continue the weekend of September 21 and 22.

The annual Labor Day tournament at the club was held as an afternoon shotgun with a better ball of partners. First place went to Joan and Bill Quackenbush with a net of 65. Second and third place saw a tie between Lou and Bill Millman and by Mim and Jack Houghton. Both partners had

Football Clinic for Fans This Saturday
Princeton area football fans will have a chance to improve their knowledge of the technical aspects of the game Saturday morning when Princeton University hosts its third annual football clinic. The clinic will be open to all area residents free of charge, and will run from 9:30 to 11:30 in Jadwin Gymnasium.
Head coach Bob Casciola and each member of his staff will offer a short presentation on their respective areas of activity. Several players on the '74 Tiger squad and head trainer Dick Malacrea will also participate.
"The subject matter of the clinic is aimed at the high school age player, but we also feel it will prove very interesting to kids in the 10-14 age group," Casciola said. "We will cover just about every phase of the game on both offense and defense, including the kicking game. The clinic should prove enjoyable both to the longtime fan, as well as the newcomer to the game."
In addition to the technical portion of the program, there will also be raffles for free tickets to all Tiger home games and for two footballs.
